49th Annual Conference on South Asia

October 21-23, 2021

University of Wisconsin-Madison

October 1, 2021

Dear Conference Participants,

We would like to welcome you all virtually to Madison, Wisconsin for the 49th Annual Conference on South Asia! This year, we are delighted to host more than 900 registered participants, 15 symposia, 126 panels, 17 roundtables, and several special events via Canapii for our online conference, October 21-23.

The theme of the conference this year is “resistance,” a term that has taken on multiple meanings as we emerge from a global pandemic.

We would like to remind you that the safety and well-being of all visitors to the Annual Conference on South Asia is very important to us. In accordance with UW-Madison policy, the Annual Conference aims to provide a welcoming and inclusive environment to everyone and does not condone discrimination on the grounds of race and ethnicity; sex, gender, and gender identity or expression; marital status; age; sexual orientation; country of origin; language; disability; socio-economic status; and affiliations that are based on cultural, political, religious, or other identities.

We ask that all participants help us to create a safe virtual space for learning and exchange, and engage respectfully and professionally with the speakers and other participants during the conference. Conference organizers reserve the right to remove any disruptive participants from shared spaces.

Please visit www.southasiaconference.wisc.edu for more information on the conference and to view the online schedule. If you have general questions or concerns, feel free to drop by the registration desk or e-mail us at conference@southasia.wisc.edu. We very much hope that you will enjoy the conference!

Sincerely,

Viren Murthy

South Asia Translation Workshop

8:30 AM-5:30 PM

Organizer – Aliya Ram (Princeton University)

Organizer – Meher Ali (Princeton University)

This is a practical workshop-style symposium on South Asian translation to take place in three sessions, each focused on a text from a different South Asian language. The aim of the symposium is for participants and attendees to collaborate on translating and discussing South Asian literature, texts and culture. Each workshop session will focus on a pre-circulated 20th century text. In the first half of the session, the workshop leader will introduce the selected text, and the members of the roundtable will present their translations and provide a short comment for 10 minutes each. In the second half, the panelists will lead the audience members in an informal, dynamic translation exercise – to allow them a chance to try their hand at translating the text themselves, followed by discussion and Q&A.

Don Palathara is a film director, screenwriter, and documentary filmmaker from Kerala, India. Known for working on shoestring budgets and new or inexperienced actors, his films are expositions of local Kerala culture and study on the human nature. Palathara's films have gained accolades at several international film festivals.

Sikuma Rai is a multimedia storyteller based in Lalitpur, Nepal. She has also been working as a multimedia journalist for the past four years. अरक चाना बानाओ, सीमा” or “Come over for a drink, kanchhi” is her debut documentary where she confronts the popular narrative that alcoholism is the main cause of the Rai community’s backwardness. For Sikuma, the process of storytelling and documentary is a way to enrich her life with experiences and come closer to the realities around her, and in that undertaking, shaper her identities. She aspires to see stories through a sociological lens and create an analytical understanding of our diverse communities.

Ramdas Kadavallur is a film maker from India, and the founder of Clone Cinema Alternative, an independent film organization based in Delhi. Started his career as a journalist in a leading newspaper in India publishing in a regional language, he was a news reader in All India Radio, Delhi since 2003. A Post Graduate in Mathematics, he later completed his post graduate diploma in Mass Communication. He has authored a book, penned several articles on human rights issues, and also assisted several documentary film projects. He has often faced opposition from conservatives for speaking out against fascism and dealing with human right issues.

‘Mannu : Sprouts of Endurance’ is his debut feature film as a director.

1956, Central Travancore

Written and Directed by Don Palathara

Kora and his brother Onan gather four men to go on a gaur hunt in order to make some quick money. Their journey progresses through their dreams, desires, fears, fantasies and struggles. Distanced from their families and loved ones, sharing stories help them remember and appreciate their inescapable pasts and make bonds. When the real and imagined nature turn out to be larger than their will and strength could handle, they learn the harsh realities of the endeavor they have taken up.

Come over for a drink, kanchhi

Director, Writer, Cinematographer/Cameraman and Editor by Sikuma Rai

“Come over for a drink, kanchhi” is the director's confrontation with the popular narrative in Nepal, that alcoholism is the main cause of the Rai community's backwardness. In the journey to find the truth, we are exposed to the untold stories of Rai women of Sikteltar, Bhojpur who cannot go a day without a single sip of liquor, in contrast to the generational old myth that Rai should drink because it is the gift and norm passed onto them by their ancestors.

Mannu: Sprouts of Endurance

Directed by Ramdas Kadavallur

The Munnar Plantation Strike in 2015 was a labour strike organized by the women plantation workers in tea estates of Kerala (India) obviating the existing trade unions from syndicating the movement, which resulted in the formation of a labour organization called Pempilai Orumai (Women's Unity). The plantation workers are often meted out discrimination on the basis of language besides caste and thus feel alienated. Most of them belong to the backward community and were brought to the plantation estates by the British during pre-independence period. Being the cheapest, but productive, women's labour is the bedrock of economy of production. The agitation led by the women plantation workers in Munnar, was an attempt to demarcate the economical and gender disparities in plantation sector. This documentary is an attempt to measure the gradient of demands corroborated by women workers, taking stock of the pursuance of movement in a political dimension and also an enterprise to berth the life of plantation workers in Munnar.

Arun Luthra's Konnakol Jazz Project

Friday, October 22, 2021, 8:00 PM

Hamel Music Center's Collins Recital Hall and Canapii Livestream

Saxophonist, composer and konnakol artist Arun Luthra is an American musician of Indian heritage who fuses modern post-bop Black American Music with elements of Indian classical music – especially konnakol (South Indian classical music vocal percussion). He connects a wide range of modern and classic musical influences to create a vibrant new sound and style.

He is the leader of the Konnakol Jazz Project, who have performed across the Americas, Asia, Europe and Australia. Luthra has studied and performed with notable Hindustani and Carnatic music masters and also shared the stage and recorded with many of the greatest Black American Music, Afro-Cuban, Brazilian, pop and world music artists. He is also a faculty member of the School of Jazz and Contemporary Music at the New School's College of Performing Arts in New York.

Nira Wickramasinghe is Chair and Professor of Modern South Asian studies at Leiden University in the Netherlands. Before taking up her post in the Netherlands in 2010, she worked in the Department of History at the University of Colombo, Sri Lanka. Her research centers on issues of belonging, everyday life under colonialism and the relationship between state and society in Sri Lanka and the Indian Ocean. Trained as a historian she has written on late colonial and modern Sri Lanka using a variety of archives. Her books include: Slave in a Palanquin: Colonial Servitude and Resistance in Sri Lanka (Columbia University Press 2020); Sri Lanka in the Modern Age. A History (Oxford University Press 2015); Metallic Modern. Everyday machines in Colonial Sri Lanka (Berghahn 2014), L'Invention du Vêtement National au Sri Lanka (Karthala 2006), Dressing the Colonised Body (Orient Longman 2003), Civil Society in Sri Lanka (Sage Publ. 2001). She has been, inter alia, a Fellow at the Shelby Cullom Davis Center for Historical Studies at Princeton University (2008-2009), British Academy Visiting Professor (2005) at the University of Oxford and Fulbright Senior Scholar at ICAS, New York University (2003-2004). Her current research on enslaved people detaches Lanka from the subcontinent to insert the island in the Indian Ocean world. Nira Wickramasinghe studied at the Université de Paris-IV Sorbonne and received her D.Phil in modern history from the University of Oxford. She is presently involved in setting up a small academic press in Sri Lanka called Tambapanni Academic Publishers.

How the Annual Conference on South Asia Began

By Robert Eric Frykenberg, Emeritus Professor of History & South Asian Studies

Among many memories of the early years of South Asian Studies at the University of Wisconsin, perhaps none are more vivid than recollections of how the Annual Conference on South Asia first began. During the 1970-71 academic year, when I was chair the Department of South Asian Studies and director of the South Asia Center, we were told by Washington, in quite explicit terms, that our three-year Center grant would not be renewed unless we could give evidence showing how South Asian Studies at UW was reaching out to other institutions and providing services to the general public. But how, with our then very meager resources, were we going to demonstrate that we were, indeed and in fact, reaching out to wider constituencies? That was our challenge.

It was at that time that we devised a shell-in-shell, or box-in-box, paradigm of seven concentric “spheres of outreach” whereby the benefits of understandings of South Asia could be disseminated more widely. Circles, or constituencies, of possible influence were demarcated as : (1) the department; (2) the college; (3) the UW campus; (4) campuses of the state; (5) campuses of the Mid-West; (6) campuses of North America; and (7) campuses of the whole world, especially in South Asia itself, as well as in Europe, Australia, Africa and the Far East. To this end, we decided to hold a major conference in Wisconsin. We contacted executives of Wingspread, the Frank Lloyd-Wright-designed conference center near Racine, Wisconsin, run by the Johnson Foundation. Describing what we wished to do, we asked for their help in hosting a path-breaking event. They replied in the affirmative, indicating that while they could not provide over night accommodations for conference participants, they would gladly provide such meeting rooms as we needed, together with some food and refreshments. With this generous invitation in hand, we set about organizing panels and sending out invitations – to any and all South Asian scholars wherever they might be located, but especially in the Midwest. We were astounded at the response. Scholars came from near and far. Most South Asianists from Chicago came. So did scholars from Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, and Missouri, as well as from Pennsylvania and UC-Berkeley.

The very first Wisconsin Conference of South Asian Studies took place at Wingspread on the first weekend of November, 1971. At that time, we decided that it would be good for all prospective future participants to easily remember that the event would always be held on the first weekend of November. But such was the constant and coincident advent of snow and bitter weather on that very weekend that, eventually, the date was moved up to mid-October. The event was truly memorable. Among those who participated, revealing his scholarly prowess for the first time, was Velcheru Narayana Rao. His remarkable performance made a considerable impact upon the minds of all who heard him. Among others who were there was the late and noted Sanskritist J.A.B. (“Hans”) Van Buitenen who gave his film production on Vedic Sacrifice in Pune. So also were Susanne and Lloyd Rudolph, as well as A.K. Ramanujan. Lest there be any invidious omissions, no further attempt is made here at listing names of those who were present at that event. Suffice it to say, there were some eighty to one hundred esteemed colleagues and scholars at that first conference.

The Second Annual Wisconsin Conference on South Asian Studies was held on the UW-Madison campus. This too was a resounding success, attracting many more participants. Then, because South Asia Center at Wisconsin wanted to demonstrate the wish, and fulfill the promise, of “reaching out” beyond the Madison campus, the Third Wisconsin Conference was held on the campus of UW-Oshkosh. While this event, convened and organized by John Richards, was also a success, we quickly realized that, henceforth, future annual conferences should be held on the campus of UW-Madison. There were a number of reasons for this: efficiency and regularity. Slowly conference policies and procedural conventions were evolving so as to assure continuity, and some measure of control over the quality and quantity of panels for each conference. Each year’s event was to be organized by a conference committee in which a blending of old and new members combined a sense of continuity with fresh energy and insights. Over the years, successive refinements of procedures came into being, dealing with various difficulties as these came up and setting precedents for future conferences. Eventually, campus facilities became inadequate, so that in 2001 the venue was moved to the Concourse Hotel, one block from the magnificent Wisconsin State Capitol.

Indian Studies Department – December 1964

What has astounded all Center for South Asia faculty and staff at UW-Madison, and continues to astonish them to this day, is the reach of the Annual Conference on South Asia. With participants now coming from every continent, and numbering over six hundred each year, the event has obviously fulfilled a need that was felt world-wide. In metaphorical terms: it was as if a match were thrown onto a floor covered with gasoline. Fires that flare up among South Asianists who come to Wisconsin each year have continued to attract more and more onlookers and participants. While there are now many other South Asia Conferences, in different regions of North America and different regions of the world, the Annual Conference on South Asia remains the most well-attended and among the most attractive. Only one other event is comparable. This is the European Conference of Modern South Asian Studies. This wonderful event, just about as old (if not older), takes place every other year, with each being convened in a different European city. This conference is just as popular but has never attracted quite as many participants; and hence, tends to be more close-knit.

The role of many colleagues in bringing the Wisconsin Conference to its current level of quality and prestige can hardly be exaggerated. Joseph W. Elder and Manindra K. Verma both served on the first organizing committee. During his long tenure as department chair and center director, Manindra patiently and carefully developed the Annual Conference. Joe's continuing presence, throughout these years, has been ever ubiquitous. During the early years, staff work was done by Judith Paterson. Sharon Dickson, who took her place, also served for many years. Rikhil Bhavnani (Director), Sarah Beckham (Associate Director), together with Andrea Fowler (Assistant Director) and other staff, carry on the day-to-day planning and administration. Many others, too many to mention, have faithfully served in bringing this annual event to its current level.

Announcing the 50th Annual Conference on South Asia

October 19-22, 2022

Additional details on modality and submission guidelines forthcoming!

Please support the Center for South Asia at UW-Madison

Donor support for the Center is essential to providing the high quality programming that we seek to offer throughout the year.

You can support our efforts two ways:

Online: Visit <https://southasia.wisc.edu/> and click the “Support Us” link

By Mail: Make your check payable to “UW Foundation” and write in the memo line “Center for South Asia Fund - 132541019”

Checks can be mailed to:
